D1 or D2 each describes a method and a apparatus for operating communication network wherein a. multicast/broadcast multimedia service is available over an air interface wireless) to a remote unit, a media flow (= packet flow) the multicast/broadcast multimedia service being subject to unidirectional header compression logic (= algorithm) compressor, the method characterized by: receiving a request indicating that the remote unit seeks access multicast/broadcast multimedia service; and, in response thereto, generating, external to the header compression logic, trigger(= initiates) signal which is applied compressor to trigger a lowest compression state of the header compression logic, (D1: [2], [20], [25-26], [36], [43-53] claims 1-33 D2: [33-37], [68-76]).

A method, a device and a communication network according to claims 1, 5, 10-11, 14, and 21 are known from document D1 or D2 Thus, the invention defined in claims 1, 5, 10-11, 14, and 21 is not new and consequently lacks novelty and inventive step.

Dependent claims 2-4, 6-9, 12-13, 15-19 and 22-23 do not contain any features which, in combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT in respect of novelty or inventive step, the reasons being as follows:

The features of dependent claims 2-4, 6-9, 12-13, 15-19 have already been employed for the same purpose in a similar method and network see D1 or D2, (D1: [2], [20], [25-26], [36], [43-53] and claims 1-33 D2: [33-37], [68-76]). It would therefore be obvious to the person skilled in the art, to apply these features with corresponding effect to a method and network according to D2, thereby arriving at an method and network according to claims 2-4, 6-9, 12-13, 15-19.

The subject-matter of said application therefore constitutes prior art of the present application and is considered to anticipate the subject-matter of claims 1-21.

D3 and D4 describe the prior art of invention.
